Fabric Technologies

Our Nano Moisture Wicking technology captures and pulls fluids and perspiration away from the skin and spreads it over the fabric surface area for quick evaporation so you will feel dry and comfortable. Applied at the fiber level, the wicking lasts the life of the garment.

Our Nano Fluid Repellency technology enhances fibers at the molecular level, so fluids will bead up and roll off the fabric, keeping you dry and comfortable while the fabric maintains its natural breathability.

Elbeco’s N-Zyme® process uses naturally occurring enzymes to deep clean the fabric removing any loose fibers, while preparing a fresh cotton surface for maximum dye retention.

Our permanent Antimicrobial technology is applied at the fiber level to reduce bacteria that causes odor over time. It provides excellent durability through multiple washings, and the technology remains for the life of the garment.

A waterproof, breathable membrane that provides full protection against rain, sleet and snow, Hiptex™ is bonded to the outer shell of our Summit™ outerwear to function as natural skin, preventing water penetration while allowing breathability. You will not only stay dry, you will feel dry.

Elbeco has an unusual idea of what it means to be successful.

Response. For example, we hope you never notice our Response line of uniforms. Because when you don’t notice, that means our Response uniforms are doing their job exactly the way you do yours—maximum efficiency, maximum effectiveness.

Our goal is to make the industry’s best uniform. A uniform that wears like iron and feels like soft cotton. A uniform that can stand anything you can—run, jump, squat, crawl—and never hinder or bind. Regardless of what kind of First Responder you are, our success can help ensure yours.

Look professional and feel comfortable in these fabric blends:

POLYESTER
Polyester provides great appearance and durability in toughness and strength as well as great resistance to heat, chemicals, and wrinkles. Weights from 5.25 – 7.25 oz / sq yd are available in Ufx™.

COTTON
The comfort of cotton with the durability you demand. Weight of 6 – 8.5 oz / sq yd is available in our Regulation Base Layers and 100% Cotton Polos, Trousers, Shorts and Caps.

POLY/COTTON
The comfort of cotton and the durability of polyester unite for a great combination. This fabric retains the sharp look of polyester, yet breathes, absorbs moisture and feels soft to the touch. Weights from 4.25 – 10 oz / sq yd are available in Paragon Plus™, Tek2, T2™, Response 65/35 Poly Cotton, CDC Jumpsuit™, and Duty Uniforms.

You asked for the comfort of cotton with the best professional appearance. You demand a garment that keeps its color and won’t shrink like lesser cottons. As a uniform manufacturer with over 100 years of experience Elbeco was up to the challenge! First we started with the finest combed cotton. Then we washed and rewashed to pre-shrink the fabric. We then went the extra mile before we applied any dye. We enzyme-washed the fabric. Elbeco’s N-Zyme process uses naturally occurring enzymes to deep clean the fabric removing any loose fibers while preparing a fresh cotton surface for maximum dye retention. The result: Comfort, a professional appearance with great color retention and minimal shrinkage. Just what you asked for.

You protect us; we protect you from the elements.

Shield. Elbeco developed its Shield line of jackets and outerwear for every fire fighter, police officer, or other public safety official who has to work in less than perfect weather. In other words, every fire fighter, police officer, or other public safety official.

Depending on where you work, wind, rain, snow, and even intense sunshine can pose an additional challenge. But with Elbeco Shield garments, you get superior protection from the elements in any season without sacrificing easy access to your weapons or accessories.

Look professional and feel comfortable in this fabric blend:

HIPTEX™
A waterproof, breathable membrane that provides full protection against rain, sleet, and snow. HipTex is bonded to the outer shell of our Summit outerwear to function as natural skin, preventing water penetration while allowing breathability. You will not only stay dry, you will feel dry.

TASLAN NYLON
This water repellent nylon features a windproof and waterproof coating, delivering wind and rain protection, while retaining a high level of breathability. Available in our Summit and Meridian Modular Outerwear jackets.

THINSULATE™
3M™ Thinsulate™ Insulation is used in Summit Duty and Meridian zip-out liners. The unique microfibers trap air molecules between you and the outside, keeping you warm – without the bulk of traditional insulators. Fabric is breathable, moisture-resistant and machine washable.

This document is designed to assist in determining suitable V1 size options based on measurements taken of the intended user’s current internal vest carrier, as well as key body measurements of the intended user. This process should not replace an actual garment fitting. Upon receipt of the garment, we recommend that it be tried on by the intended user with his/her internal carrier installed to ensure proper fit.

When measuring the user’s ballistic carrier, we recommend the following in order to determine the most suitable size option:

- Use a cloth tape measure.
- Keep the ballistic panels inside the carrier when measuring.
- Measure the full amount of both the ballistic panels within the carrier, including the excess fabric bulk created by the panel carrier.
- Wear garments that are well-fitted while having someone take measurements (user should not take own measurements).
- While measurements are being taken, be sure user stands up straight and relaxed, so that measurements will reflect his/her natural stance.
- Record measurements exactly; do not round.

HOW TO MEASURE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Measurement</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1 FRONT PANEL WIDTH</td>
<td>Measure the WIDTH of your ballistic panel carrier’s FRONT panel at its widest point. (Fig. A)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 FRONT PANEL HEIGHT</td>
<td>Measure the HEIGHT of your ballistic panel carrier’s FRONT panel from the front neckline to its waistline. (Fig. A)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 BACK PANEL WIDTH</td>
<td>Measure the WIDTH of your ballistic panel carrier’s BACK panel at the widest point of the panel. This point should fall between the bottom of the armhole and the waistline of the carrier. (Fig. B)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4 BACK PANEL HEIGHT</td>
<td>Measure the HEIGHT of your ballistic panel carrier’s BACK panel from the center back neckline to the waistline. (Fig. B)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 WAIST (FULLEST POINT OF STOMACH)</td>
<td>Measure around body at waist. Waist is measured over the shirt (not the trousers) at the fullest point of the stomach, or just below the ribs; whichever point is larger. Ensure the tape measure is horizontal and fits snugly around the body, but is not pulled too tight. The measurement chart allows for a minimum waist measurement with the hook and loop closure of the vest carrier perfectly aligned, and a maximum waist measurement with only 1” of the closure secured at each side of the Elbeco V1 Vest Carrier. (Fig. C &amp; Fig. D)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

WARNING: Your ballistic panels must remain in your vest manufacturer’s approved concealable carrier while being worn with the V1. This external vest carrier offers no ballistic and/or stab protection.

Fit Guide v1 External Vest Carrier

Utilize the intended user’s measurements, as determined using the process on page 38, to select the best V1 size based on the chart below, starting with front panel width and moving through the grid to waist measurement.

Note: if user’s measurements fall within more than one size range below, select the largest size that applies prior to moving to the next measurement section. If user measurements do not match those provided, please contact your Elbeco authorized dealer or representative for assistance.

How to Measure Using a Cloth Tape Measure

- Neck Size: Wrap the measuring tape around the neck where a shirt is usually buttoned, snug but not too tight (leave enough room to get one finger under tape).

- Arm Length: With the person’s hand on their hip, measure from the center of the back neck, across shoulder and over the end of the elbow to the bend of the wrist.

- Chest: 1 inch below arm, measure around the chest, snug but not too tight.

- Bust: Measure under arms and across the shoulder blades at the fullest part of the bust.

- Waist: Measure over shirt (not over trouser) at the height you wear your trousers; wrap measuring tape around waist, snug but not too tight (leave enough room to get two fingers under the tape).

- Hip: Measure 5 inches down from waist measurement, around hips.

- Inseam: Measure the inseam of an existing trouser that fits you well; measure from inside crotch to inside bottom edge.

- Torso Circumference: Measure from high point on shoulder around back, under crotch and up to starting point on shoulder.
